

Safety Alert and Charting Notice

Direct-to-the-Public Aeronautical Chart Subscriptions and Sales

The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) is taking this action to reduce costs, improve efficiencies and enhance and modernize the service provided our customers and the aviation community.

Effective July 1, 2013, as current subscriptions expire, the FAA will be discontinuing direct-to-the-public subscription sales of paper aeronautical charts and related paper products. Current subscriptions will be filled through their applicable expiration date and FAA will continue to offer individual (other than subscription) paper sales through the aeronav.faa.gov website until October 2013.

Currently targeted for October 1, 2013, the FAA will then discontinue all other direct-to-the-public individual sales of paper aeronautical charts and related paper products. Subsequently, all future individual purchases, and subscriptions of our aeronautical paper products will be sold expressly through the FAA's worldwide network of authorized chart sales agents.

A list of agents is available by clicking this link:
http://www.faa.gov/air_traffic/flight_info/aeronav/chart_agents/

or clicking this button on Art's Aviation website:

Authorized FAA
Aeronautical
Chart Sales
Agents

Authorized chart sales agents may offer subscription services. They are noted with a tilde (~) following their company name. Please contact the company directly for more information.

The FAA will continue to provide the digital - Terminal Procedures Publication (d-TPP).

To access the d-TPP click this button on Art's Aviation website:

FREE
U.S. Government
Approach Charts
From FAA

or click this link:

http://www.faa.gov/air_traffic/flight_info/aeronav/digital_products/dtpp/

For additional assistance, please contact FAA at: 9-amc-aerochart@faa.gov or by phone at: 800-626-3677.